UAE Firm Gives Up on Ports

Move averts showdown between Bush and GOP lawmakers

WASHINGTON | Bowing to ferocious opposition in Congress, a Dubai-owned company signaled surrender Thursday in its quest to take over operations at U.S. ports.

"DP World will transfer fully the U.S. operations ... to a United States entity," the firm's top executive, H. Edward Bilkey, said in an announcement capping weeks of controversy.

Relieved Republicans in Congress said the firm had pledged full divestiture, a decision one senator said had been approved by the prime minister of the United Arab Emirates.

The announcement appeared to indicate an end to a politically tinged controversy that brought President Bush and Republicans in Congress to the brink of an election-year veto battle on a terrorism-related issue.

After weeks of controversy — and White House veto threats that White House spokesman Scott McClellan renewed at midmorning Thursday — the end came unexpectedly.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 62-2 on Wednesday to block the deal, and GOP congressional leaders privately informed the president Thursday morning that the Senate would inevitably follow suit.

Senate Democrats clamored for a vote, increasing pressure on Senate Republicans to abandon the president.

"This should make the issue go away," said Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, one of several GOP leaders to tell Bush earlier in the day that Congress was ready to ignore his veto threat and scuttle the deal. DAVID ESPO (AP)

A Suffolk University professor is being investigated by school officials after, students say, he watched pornography on his computer during a lecture, unaware that it was being shown at the same time on a monitor behind him, WHDH-TV reported. Luis Garcia is accused of having the porno running on his computer for a half-hour until the end of class, while the content ran on a second screen that he didn't notice. Students said they didn't try to interrupt the class to stop it. A university spokesperson said Garcia has been suspended. (EXPRESS)

Fortunately, He Was Breaking the Law

A Campton, Ky., man has been hailed as a hero after pulling two people from a burning vehicle after a car crash — but he ended up in jail for driving with a suspended license, the Lexington Herald-Leader reported. The accident occurred when a car crossed a highway lane and struck another vehicle that burst into flames, trapping a man and his daughter inside. Daniel Landrum was driving nearby and saw the incident, then ran over and pulled the two out of the burning wreck. Police then arrived and found Landrum was not legally allowed to drive. (EXPRESS)

Think Outside the Box

A St. John's, Newfoundland, woman who spent more than $250 on eBay for an empty iPod box has received most of her money back, the Canadian Press reported. Mary Ann Butt thought she was buying an iPod for her son as a Christmas present when she placed the order. When it arrived, however, it was simply iPod packaging. Thinking there had been a mistake, Butt contacted the seller, who pointed out that the listing on eBay was merely for the box, not the iPod itself. She complained to the site, which secured more than $240 in a refund from the seller. (EXPRESS)

Bush Signs Renewal of Patriot Act

Measure becomes law after political battles postponed approval

WASHINGTON | A day before parts of the USA Patriot Act were to expire, President Bush signed into law a renewal that will allow the government to keep using terror-fighting tools passed after Sept. 11.

Bush's signature came two days after the House gave final approval to the legislation over objections that it infringes on Americans' privacy. The president said the law has been vital to protecting Americans from terrorists.

"The Patriot Act has accomplished exactly what it was designed to do," Bush said during a signing ceremony in the White House East Room. "It has helped us detect terrorist cells, disrupt terrorist plots and save American lives."

Sixteen provisions of the old law were set to expire Friday. Political battles over the legislation forced Congress to extend the expiration date twice.

To get the legislation renewed,

Bush was forced to accept new curbs on the Patriot Act's powers.

These new civil liberties protections for the first time say explicitly that people who receive subpoenas granted under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act for library, medical, computer and other records can challenge a gag order in court.

Some say the protections did not go far enough.

"Today marks, sadly, a missed opportunity to protect both the national security needs of this country and the rights and freedoms of its citizens," said Sen. Russ Feingold, D-Wis.

But Republicans want to take the law into the upcoming midterm elections to show they are acting to protect national security.

The legislation renews the expiring provisions of the original Patriot Act, including one that lets federal officials obtain "tangible items," such as business records, from libraries and bookstores, in connection with foreign intelligence and international terrorism investigations.

Chertoff: Bird Flu Could Hit U.S. Soon

WASHINGTON | A deadly strain of bird flu could appear in the United States in the next few months as wild birds migrate from infected nations, Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff said Thursday.

Chertoff said "there will be a reasonable possibility of a domestic fowl outbreak" as migrating birds mix with ducks, chickens and other birds in the U.S. But he cautioned against panic, noting that the Agriculture Department has dealt with other strains of bird flu for years.

"I can't predict, but I certainly have to say that we should be prepared for the possibility that at some point in the next few months, a wild fowl will come over the migratory pathway and will be infected with H5N1," Chertoff said. (AP)

Tenn. Senate OKs Abortion Measure

NASHVILLE, TENN. | The state Senate on Thursday passed a proposal to amend the Tennessee Constitution so that it doesn't guarantee a woman's right to an abortion.

The 24-9 vote was the first step of many toward officially amending the state constitution. The measure would go before voters if the General Assembly approves it twice over the next two years.

The state Supreme Court has ruled that the Tennessee Constitution grants women a greater right to abortion than the U.S. Constitution.

Abortion rights supporters are attacking the measure as a stepping stone to prohibiting all abortions in Tennessee if the U.S. Supreme Court overturns the landmark abortion decision in Roe v. Wade. (AP)

Probe Spots Water on Saturn Moon

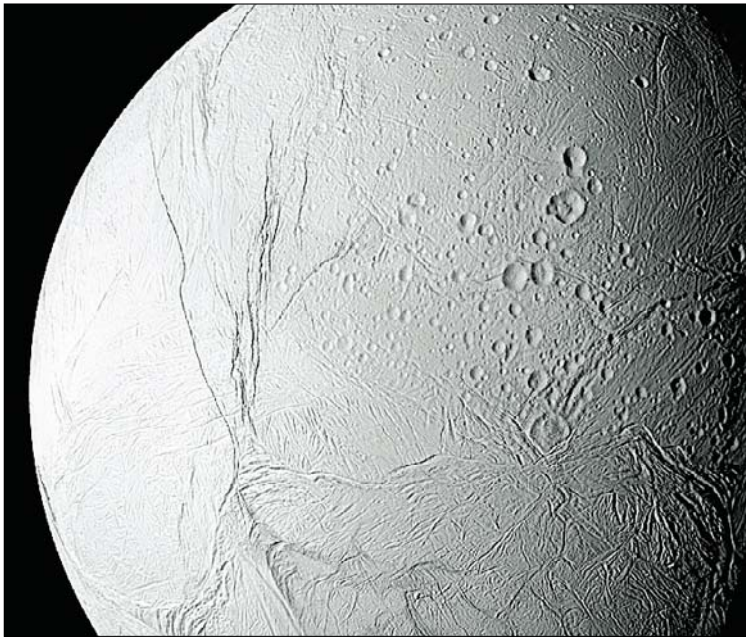

Evidence of Enceladus' geysers raises possibility of conditions for life

LOS ANGELES | The orbiting Cassini spacecraft has spotted what appear to be water geysers on one of Saturn's icy moons, raising the tantalizing possibility that the celestial object harbors life.

The surprising images from the moon Enceladus represent some of the most dramatic evidence yet that water in liquid form may be present beyond the Earth.

Excited by the discovery, some scientists said Enceladus should be added to the short list of places within the solar system most likely to have extraterrestrial life.

Scientists generally agree several ingredients are needed for life to emerge, including water in liquid form and a stable heat source. But so far, the evidence of any large amounts of water in liquid form on celestial objects beyond Earth is circumstantial and indirect, based on scientists' analysis of rocks and other data.

Cassini recently snapped high-resolution images showing geyser-like eruptions of ice particles and water vapor at Enceladus' south pole, scientists said. The pictures do not actually show any water in liquid form, but scientists believe the ice and vapor must be coming from underground reservoirs of water close to the surface.

If Enceladus does harbor life, it probably consists of microbes or other primitive organisms capable of living in extreme conditions, scientists say. ALICIA CHANG (AP)

House Panel OK's $1B for Veterans, Heat Subsidies

WASHINGTON | The House Appropriations Committee has approved freeing up more than $1 billion for veterans medical care and heating subsidies for the poor.

The provisions were added to a huge $91 billion measure funding overseas operations.

The veterans amendment would clear the way for the Veterans Administration to steer $275 million in emergency funds away from construction of a new VA hospital in New Orleans and toward financing health care for an influx of Iraq war veterans.

At the same time, $750 million in heating subsidies for poor people could be used to help defray the high fuel costs of this winter.

Rumsfeld: Iraqis Would Quell Civil War

Defense chief says U.S. troops seek to halt rise in sectarian violence

WASHINGTON | Dealing with a civil war in Iraq would be the responsibility of Iraq's own security forces, at least initially, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld told Congress on Thursday.

Testifying alongside senior military leaders and Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, Rumsfeld said he did not believe Iraq would descend into all-out civil war, though he acknowledged that sectarian strife had worsened.

Gen. John Abizaid, the top U.S. commander in the Middle East, said the situation in Iraq had evolved to the point where Sunni-Shiite violence was more of a threat to U.S. success there than the insurgency, which continues to take a deadly toll on Iraqi and American troops and to impede efforts to stabilize the country.

Defense Secretary Rumsfeld answers questions Thursday on Capitol Hill.

Rumsfeld previously had been reluctant to say what the U.S. military would do in the event of civil war, but in an appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee he was pressed on the matter by Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va.

"The plan is to prevent a civil war, and to the extent one were to occur, to have the — from a security standpoint — have the Iraqi security forces deal with it, to the extent they are able to," Rumsfeld told the committee. ROBERT BURNS (AP)

U.S. to Stop Using Iraq's Abu Ghraib

Prisoners will move from infamous prison to 'Camp Cropper' site

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | The U.S. military said Thursday it would begin moving thousands of prisoners out of Abu Ghraib prison to a new lock-up near Baghdad's airport within three months and hand the notorious facility over to Iraqi authorities as soon as possible.

Abu Ghraib has become perhaps the most infamous prison in the world, known as the site where U.S. soldiers abused some Iraqi detainees and, earlier, for its torture chambers during Saddam Hussein's rule.

The sprawling facility on the western outskirts of Baghdad will be turned over to Iraqi authorities once the prisoner transfer to Camp Cropper and other U.S. military prisons in the country is finished. The process will take several months, said Lt. Col. Barry Johnson, a U.S. military spokesman in Baghdad.

Meanwhile, the Iraqi Cabinet announced Thursday that it hanged 13 insurgents, the first executions of militants since the ouster of Saddam.

The announcement listed the name of only one of those hanged, Shukair Farid, a former policeman in Mosul, who allegedly confessed that he had worked with Syrian foreign fighters to enlist fellow Iraqis to kill police and civilians.

A judicial official said the death sentences were handed down in separate trials and were carried out in Baghdad.

Also Thursday, a series of explosions rocked Baghdad, including a car bomb that struck a Sunni mosque and a shooting that killed a total of 17 civilians and wounded 31 as a dust storm enveloped the capital.

The U.S. military reported the death of another Marine, killed Wednesday in insurgency-ridden Anbar province.

Iran: West Will Suffer Over Nukes

TEHRAN, IRAN | Iran's hard-line president on Thursday warned the West will suffer more than his country if it tries to stop Tehran's nuclear ambitions, vowing to press ahead with the program as the confrontation moved into the U.N. Security Council.

President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad's comments came as Tehran struck an increasingly threatening tone, with the top Iranian delegate to the U.N. atomic watchdog agency warning a day earlier that the United States will face "harm and pain" if the Security Council becomes involved.

"They know that they are not capable of causing the least harm to Iranian people," Ahmadinejad said during a visit to Iran's western province of Lorestan, according to the ISNA news agency. "They will suffer more."

Ahmadinejad did not elaborate. Some diplomats saw the comments as a veiled threat to use oil as a weapon, though Iran's oil minister ruled out any decrease in production.

The five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council with veto power — the United States, Russia, China, Britain and France — debated on Thursday how tough an action to take over Iran's disputed nuclear program.

The council could consider sanctions, but that seemed unlikely due to opposition by Russia and China. Instead, the first response will likely be a nonbinding statement. (AP)

Argentina's Air Force Admits 'Dirty War' Role

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA | Argentina's air force acknowledged for the first time Thursday that some of its members committed abuses during the country's Dirty War, a seven-year crackdown on dissent that erupted 30 years ago.

Brigadier Gen. Eduardo Schiaffino made the statement during a speech at a high-profile military ceremony attended by the country's defense minister. A similar statement was made last week by the navy chief, Adm. Jorge Godoy, as military leaders appealed for reconciliation days ahead of the 30th anniversary of the 1976 coup.

Some 13,000 people are officially listed as dead or missing from the 1976-83 dictatorship, but human rights groups put the toll at more than double that from what prosecutors called a systematic state crackdown on opposition through illegal abductions, torture and executions.

Last year, Argentina's Supreme Court struck down sweeping amnesties — passed in the 1980s — that shielded hundreds of former officers from prosecution for disappearances arising from the 1976-83 military rule.

Many officers could eventually be called to court to testify. (AP)

Olmert Lays Out Timeline

Acting PM sees final Israeli-Palestinian border drawn by 2010

JERUSALEM | Israel will draw its final borders by 2010, acting Prime Minister Ehud Olmert said in an interview published Thursday, for the first time setting a deadline for what is expected to be a unilateral large-scale West Bank pullback.

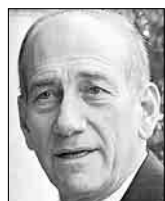

Olmert, whose Kadima Party is the front-runner in March 28 elections, has been increasingly forthcoming about his agenda in recent days to stop a gradual slide in the polls.

Olmert's agenda also includes a plan for an expanded Jerusalem that alarms Palestinians, connecting the West Bank's largest settlement to the disputed city with new Jewish housing — a plan the U.S. opposes.

Olmert told The Jerusalem Post daily that within four years, he intends to "get to Israel's permanent borders, whereby we will completely separate from the majority of the Palestinian population and preserve a large and stable Jewish majority in Israel."

Jerusalem and its environs

would also fall within the permanent borders, as would the West Bank's Jordan Valley on the frontier with Jordan, which Olmert characterized as a "security border."

With the militant group Hamas about to present a new Palestinian government, resumption of stalled peace negotiations for the region appears unlikely.

Hamas leaders met with Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas in Gaza late Thursday. Abbas aide Nabil Abu Rdeneh said Hamas has not completed formation of its government and the president offered an extra two weeks, as Palestinian law provides.

Ex-Teacher Briefly Seizes Hostages

SABLE-SUR-SARTHE, FRANCE | A former teacher armed with a handgun and suffering from paranoia took nearly two dozen people, mostly students, hostage Thursday, holding them in a classroom at his former school in western France and freeing them unharmed about four hours later, officials said.

The 33-year-old man, identified as Nicolas Vilpail, was on medication and apparently under the influence of alcohol, and surrendered calmly after holding 23 people — 21 of them teenage students — captive throughout the afternoon and early evening, police and local officials said.

The surrender of the gunman, who had taught at the school for four years but was unemployed and looking for work, came after hours of negotiations, said Jean-Luc Prigent, a top aide in the local administration.

Another local official said the man was on medication, apparently under the influence of alcohol and making "paranoiac demands." (AP)

China Lashes Out On Rights Report

Beijing rejects criticism of its record, tells U.S. to look at its own issues

BEIJING | China on Thursday lashed out against U.S. criticism of its human rights record, saying racial discrimination and crime were still rife in the United States and prisoners abused at U.S.-run detention centers.

The State Council, China's Cabinet, denounced the United States for what it called rampant violence and widespread discrimination against minorities — especially blacks — in its response to the State Department's annual report on human rights worldwide.

"For a long time, the life and security of the people of the United States has not been under efficient protection," the Chinese report said.

Blacks are given heavier criminal penalties, arrested more frequently and are more likely to be targeted for hate crimes, the report said.

It also criticized American troops for alleged brutality at prisons in Iraq and the detention camp for terror suspects at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The response came one day after the State Department said the Chinese government's human rights record "remained poor, and the government continued to commit numerous and serious abuses."

The U.S. report said repression worsened in China in 2005, with a trend toward "increased harassment, detention, and imprisonment" of people seen as threats to the Chinese government. It also mentioned tightened controls over print and broadcast media and censorship of online content. AUDRA ANG (AP)

U.N.: 1.1B Lack Access to Safe Water

NAIROBI, KENYA | Environmental degradation, poor management and a burgeoning population has produced some of the worst water shortages in the world in sub-Saharan Africa, exacerbating poverty and disease, according to a U.N. report Thursday.

Indeed, around the world, mismanagement, limited resources and environmental changes have combined to deny 1.1 billion people access to safe water, the report said. The report was compiled by 24 U.N. agencies who say it is the most comprehensive look at the planet's freshwater supplies to date.

Globally, diarrhea diseases and malaria kill around 3.1 million people, according to the U.N., which said 1.6 million could be saved if provided with safe drinking water, sanitation and hygiene.

Water use has increased six-fold during the last century, double the rate of population growth. (AP)

Metro: D.C. Exurbs See Big Benefit

Officials want outer suburbs to contribute funds to transit agency

WASHINGTON | Metro Board members plan to send a letter to Virginia legislators pointing out the benefit residents get from the transit agency — even those from counties not paying for it.

A survey released Thursday shows 10 percent of riders — more than 73,500 — live outside the District and its inner suburbs, the jurisdictions paying millions each year to help subsidize the system.

More than 10,000 passengers from Anne Arundel County ride Metro each day along with nearly 10,000 from Prince William County and 7,400 from Howard County. Close to 3,000 come from Loudoun County. None of those counties belong to the Metro compact.

This became a hot political issue at Thursday's Metro Budget Committee meeting, but the focus was on Prince William, after the death of a bill to increase northern Virginia's sales tax by a quarter cent to pay for Metro.

Two Prince William County delegates — Del. L. Scott Lingamfelter, R-Prince William, and Del. Harry J. Parrish, R-Manassas — helped defeat the measure on its first vote.

Barry Avoids Jail, Gets Probation

Former mayor takes 'full responsibility' for not filing his taxes

WASHINGTON | Former Mayor Marion Barry was sentenced to three years probation Thursday in connection with charges that he failed to file federal or local tax returns for 2000.

"I take full responsibility," Barry, 70, told the judge while making a plea for leniency. He said at this point he has a negative net worth that is subject to a number of judgments, a reference to his outstanding legal problems.

Barry pleaded guilty last October under an agreement reached with federal prosecutors which required him to acknowledge his failure to file returns for the years 1999 through 2004.

Barry completed his fourth term as mayor in early 1999. While Barry has said he's unsure how much money he earned during that time, he did not challenge claims by federal prosecutors that his income topped $534,000 during the five year period.

U.S. Magistrate Judge Deborah A. Robinson declined to fine Barry, noting that the outstanding taxes he has agreed to pay are substantial. Barry owes $195,000 in federal taxes and $54,000 plus penalties and interest in D.C. taxes.

"It was a reality of not having money on the one hand, and constraints against taking gifts," said Barry's attorney, Fred D. Cooke Jr.,

Barry's role as an elected official. He is currently the councilman from Ward 8.

The former mayor apologized to the court, to the citizens of D.C. and to the citizens of the United States, and admitted that he has been in recovery for substance abuse problems since Jan. 19, 1990, when he was videotaped smoking crack cocaine during an FBI sting.

Several times since 1991, Barry has sought treatment or counseling for problems with prescription medications or other substances.

Montgomery Co. Gets Boost In Public-Safety Funding

Montgomery County officials from the council president to the police and fire chiefs to the state's attorney Thursday hailed a nearly $500 million public safety budget that boosts spending by nearly 14 percent, adding personnel, equipment and technology designed to make the community safer. It includes nearly 200 new jobs, crime-fighting technology, vehicles and other equipment. The county's police department would get 28 positions, while the fire department would get more than 80, said Montgomery County Executive Douglas M. Duncan. (AP)

Md. Senate, House Pass Differing Stem-Cell Bills

The Maryland Senate and House of Delegates have approved significantly different bills funding research on stem cells taken from human embryos, leaving supporters little more than a month to resolve their differences. Senate leaders are hoping the House will accept their bill so it will not have to come back to the Senate. House Speaker Michael Busch said after Wednesday's vote that there were major flaws with the Senate bill, including the fact that it does not require that any money be provided for stem cell research. The House bill would mandate that at least $25 million a year be included in the budget for stem cell research grants; the Senate version would let the governor to decide whether money would be appropriated and how much. U.S. Trade Deficit Jumps to $68.5B

Strong consumption of imported goods, oil prices help widen gap

WASHINGTON | Rising oil prices and Americans' seemingly insatiable appetite for foreign goods — from Chinese clothing to French wine and Japanese cars — sent the U.S. trade deficit to another record.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that the deficit jumped to $68.5 billion in January, 5.3 percent more than in December. Analysts had expected the trade gap to worsen, given the surge in world oil prices, but the increase caught them by surprise.

"We shopped the world's markets until we dropped," said Joel Naroff, chief economist at Naroff Economic Advisors. "We bought a lot more of everything, including capital and consumer goods, foods and motor vehicles."

Analysts said that unless demand for imported goods slows, the U.S. could produce a record annual deficit for the fifth year in a row.

The trade report showed that the deficit with China jumped by 9.9 percent, to $17.9 billion, in January. The increase reflected a big rise in shipments of Chinese cell phones, clothing, textiles and shoes to the United States.

America's $202 billion deficit with China last year was a record for a single country. Many members of Congress want to penalize Chinese imports unless Beijing stops what the critics believe are violations of global trade rules.

The overall deficit in January surpassed the record of $67.8 billion set in October.

U.S. exports of goods and services rose 2.5 percent to an all-time high of $114.4 billion. But this increase was swamped by a 3.5 percent rise in imports, which also set a record at $182.9 billion.

Microsoft Unveils 'Project Origami'

HANOVER, GERMANY | Microsoft Corp. finally took the wraps off its mysterious Project Origami on Thursday, unveiling a computer that's about the size of a large paperback book but runs a full version of the Windows XP operating system.

The ultra compact, wireless-enabled PC is everything a full computer or laptop is, minus the keyboard. The 1-inch thick device sports a 7-inch touch-sensitive screen that responds to a stylus or the tap of a finger.

The gadget was unveiled Thursday at CeBIT, the annual technology trade show in Hanover.

So far, three companies — Samsung, Asus and Founder — have built working models. The first are expected to be available by April. (AP)

Being Human

In 'Tsotsi,' a street thug undertakes a transforming journey

FILM | Far from the ghetto streets of Soweto, the South African drama "Tsotsi" resonates with a raw freshness and immediacy and an almost mythic sense of reclamation and redemption.

Winner of the Oscar for Best Foreign-Language Film, "Tsotsi" brings Athol Fugard's novel about the mean streets of 1950s South Africa into modern times.

Director Gavin Hood, who also wrote the screenplay, traces a teen's transformation from almost mindlessly robotic thug to incipient man-child experiencing his first stirrings of compassion and decency.

In Tsotsi-Taal, the street language of Soweto used in the film, "Tsotsi" is a generic term for thug or gangster. Presley Chweneyagae's Tsotsi embodies that identity, a 19-year-old orphan who raised himself and learned in the process that evoking fear in others was his surest means to survive and thrive.

Tsotsi leads a strange gang of bad boys: Ex-teacher Boston (Mothusi Magano), vicious killer Butcher (Zenzo Ngqobe) and lame-brained but loyal bruiser Aap (Kenneth Nkosi).

At a bar one drunken night, Boston pushes inscrutable Tsotsi to share some personal shred of his dark and hidden past. Tsotsi seems to have sprung full-blown as an alpha-wolf of the streets, yet Boston's taunting pleas spark buried feelings of anxiety and dread in the gang leader.

Tsotsi responds the only way he knows how, with rage. He viciously beats Boston, then, sensing the repugnance of the other bar patrons and even members of his gang, flees. Whatever raw nerve the incident has touched in Tsotsi, the random events that follow set him on a course of either damnation or deliverance.

Hood draws stellar performances from the entire cast, but newcomer Chweneyagae makes the movie, proving an absolute natural with a fierce presence and old-soul melancholy that belie his youthful face. DAVID GERMAIN (AP)

The 'Hills' Are Alive — With Mutants

A horror classic remake with more gore than purpose

FILM | You could look at "The Hills Have Eyes" as a pointed political statement, a nasty revenge piece in which a Republican family is brutalized by a pack of mutant cannibals.

But that would entail using your brain. And after sitting through this remake of the 1977 cult favorite, you won't feel like using your brain for much of anything.

Horror fans who like their movies the gorier the better should be satisfied with French director Alexandre Aja's interpretation of the Wes Craven classic. Everyone else will feel as if they, too, have taken an ax to the head.

As they did in last year's "High Tension," Aja and his friend and co-writer, Gregory Levasseur, have made a film that begins moodily and slowly builds suspense.

Retired police detective "Big Bob" Carter (Ted Levine) and wife Ethel (Kathleen Quinlan) and family are on a road trip for their wedding anniversary. The family's German shepherds, Beauty and Beast, also are along for the ride and will play a crucial role in the possibility of anyone's survival.

Dad pulls over at a gas station in the middle of nowhere, inhabited only by a creepy, haggard attendant (Tom Bower) who fills up the tank and suggests a short cut. Through the hills, where they get stranded.

All the while, the family is being

WRONG VOTE: Emilie de Ravin as a red-state teen terrorized by mutant cannibals.

watched by people who barely resemble human beings. These misshapen misfits are more like redneck Picasso figures. With eyes on one side of their nose and a taste for blood in their mouths, they take out the Carters one by one in sadistic ways that are often disturbing to watch. Then again, the point of the genre is to disturb, so in that sense Aja has succeeded.

'Sopranos': Dead On

The drama returns stronger, wiser and sharper than ever

RETURN | So one FBI agent says to another, "Nobody ever went broke underestimating the taste of the American public."

Why is a Fed quoting H.L. Mencken? If you've been counting the minutes until 9 p.m. this Sunday, you need pay no mind to such a question. Or to this column either, beyond its observation that the new HBO's "Sopranos" season looks to be the strongest, most penetrating yet.

The premiere, titled "Members Only," should be seen in its pure state, and yours, free of any advance skinny. So consider the preceding your spoiler alert.

The episode's initial sequence, as mesmerizing as anything "The Sopranos" has framed in its five prior years, is a slyly disjointed succession of images — or so it seems. But what lies beneath is a fluid foreshadowing of the season ahead.

As the hour wears on, it seems Tony's universe is breaking down.

Let Tony (played by James Gandolfini) pay lip service to his current run of luck — no, it's "more than luck," he boasts.

"Sopranos" mastermind David Chase and his creative team haven't upped the tension level so much as introduced a whole new algorithm for conjuring dread.

Tony, though currently skipping his antidepressants (not a good idea), still sees his psychiatrist, Dr. Melfi (Lorraine Bracco), though how much progress he has made in his six years of therapy is debatable: "You still, after all this time, cannot accept you had a mother who didn't love you," Melfi tells him as he squirms.

And Tony's Uncle Junior (Dominic Chianese) has continued his Alzheimer's-fueled descent into added paranoia and hostility.

What haunts Tony is the loss of self he is seeing in his uncle — which only heightens his own existential doubts. Too introspective for his own good, Tony more than ever seems plagued by questions about who he is and how he can hold on to his identity.

The episode ends with Tony cooking dinner for Uncle Junior, with a vintage Artie Shaw record playing on the phonograph.

"Comes a rain storm, put your rubbers on your feet. Comes a snow storm, you can get a little heat." The pop-song lyrics may recall for viewers Tony's panic-stricken slog through the snow fleeing FBI agents at the end of last season. His shoes got soaked and he got cold, but he cheated fate then.

"Comes love," the song continues — "nothing can be done." FRAZIER MOORE (AP)

NEEDLES & PINS: The beautiful cut of her dress helped "Project Runway" contestant Chloe Dao win. The 33-year-old Houston, Texas, native prevailed in the Bravo network fashion-design competition Wednesday night after premiering a collection of 13 pieces at Olympus Fashion Week. Also in contention were flamboyant Santino Rice and talented Daniel Vosovic.

Enough to Go Around

HBO's 'Big Love' puts ordinary family life in a new perspective

DEBUT | "Big Love," HBO's brash new drama series (premiering Sunday at 10 p.m.), is tricky to sum up.

It's a meditation on the American dream. Bill Henrickson (played to regular-guy perfection by Bill Paxton) has a family he's proud of — three attractive wives and seven offspring among them — and a prospering business: He owns two hardware superstores.

It's also a portrait of faith, not just sex, writ large, although the show takes pains to emphasize that the Henricksons are not Mormon. Gathered for dinner in the communal backyard of their three abutting homes, the Henricksons join hands as Bill says grace: "Please bless us with good health and a successful store opening. Please bless us all as your loving family sealed together through time and all eternity."

The three sometimes satisfied, sometimes desperate housewives coexisting under one big roof include Margene (Ginnifer Goodwin), a former Homes Plus clerk, is overemotional and childish, even now as she mothers a pair of rug rats. Nicki (Chloe Sevigny) is brooding and sneaky, with two kids and an addiction to catalog-shopping. Barb (Jeanne Tripplehorn), Bill's wife of 17 years, is the mature, vaguely melancholy mother to all, left barren after cancer.

They seem all the more normal in contrast to the netherworld Bill and Nicki split from: Juniper Creek, a grim fundamentalist compound out in the sticks. It's ruled by the messianic "prophet" Roman (the sublimely creepy Harry Dean Stanton), who counts 31 children (Nicki among them) and 187 grandchildren.

"Big Love" should be an oddly comfortable fit with "The Sopranos," whose season premiere precedes it. But despite the family tussles, power plays and such, there are obvious differences. For instance, on "Big Love," the language gets no rougher than "Oh, my heck" and "There's no way in H I'll do that."

With religious fervor, "Big Love" chronicles the struggle to escape an old order, then to pass as conventionally wholesome somewhere new. It's about making big choices and honoring them.

AQUAMARINE (PG, 109 minutes) This mild-mannered comedy tells the story of 13-year-old best friends Claire (Emma Roberts) and Hailey (Joanna "JoJo" Levesque), who discover a mermaid named Aquamarine (Sara Paxton), who has come ashore to find love. She immediately sets her baby blues on a lifeguard named Raymond (Jake McDorman), whom Claire and Hailey have been crushing on all summer. The direction isn't particularly distinguished, and there are no stand-out performances to speak of, but this movie is better than nothing for its woefully underserved audience: 10 to 13-year-olds—especially girls. (AH)

BIG MOMMA'S HOUSE 2 (PG-13, 99 minutes) Martin Lawrence is FBI agent Malcolm Turner, who slaps on the big lady equipment (again) so he can pose undercover as a nanny to uncover the nefarious doings of the big daddy of the household. To add subplot injury to main-plot insult, Malcolm has to keep his mission secret from the FBI and his pregnant wife (Nia Long). Please tell me you've heard enough. (DT)

THE BOYS OF BARAKA (Unrated, 84 minutes) This rich, satisfying documentary follows four inner-city boys who discover their potential at a boarding school in Kenya. We meet them as they wend their way through tortured schools and troubled families. Each has demonstrated potential, though, and they are recruited to attend the Baraka School, founded in 1996 by a Baltimore-based foundation. Their minds are blown in Kenya, but the story takes a drastic turn. "Baraka" is a soaring, complex testament to survival, character and hope. (AH)

BROKEBACK MOUNTAIN (R, 134 minutes) From the moment Ennis Del Mar (Heath Ledger) and Jack Twist (Jake Gyllenhaal) meet, it's just a matter of when, not if. As a tragic evocation of the costs of homophobia, the film is a watershed. But as a testament to the importance of following one's passion, it's devoid of one crucial thing: passion. (AH)

CACHÉ (R, 112 minutes) Someone is watching M. Georges Laurent. One day in the mail he receives a videotape that shows nothing except his own banal comings and goings. For now, M. Laurent (Daniel Auteuil)—a member of Paris's cognitive elite, with a beautiful wife (Juliette Binoche) and an elegant townhouse—is undersomebody's microscope. The film has a great deal of difficulty overcoming the absurdity of its premise. (SH)

CAPOTE (R, 98 minutes) It is a comical image: mincing, piping little Truman Capote in his cashmere scarf tiptoeing around the bleak wheaty burg of Holcomb, Kan., in the wake of some horrific murders about which he admits he doesn't really care. As Capote, Philip Seymour Hoffman makes you believe in the man: an artist's personality, ruthless and shrewd; a hysteric's delicate grasp of his emotions; a charmer whose wiles could wear down even wary Kansas lawmen. (SH)

THE CHRONICLES OF NARNIA: THE LION, THE WITCH AND THE WARDROBE (PG, 140 minutes) Andrew Adamson's sterling version of the perdurable C.S. Lewis classic of children's fantasy is well told, handsome, stirring and loads of fun. For kids, the pleasure will be in some of the best special effects of the year. And for both, the overarching endearment will be a narrative, which speeds through its two-hour-plus running time. (SH)

CURIOUS GEORGE (G, 77 minutes) In this animated movie, the man with the yellow hat, voiced by the pipsqueaky pipes of Will Ferrell, is a complete goof. He's given a name (Ted) and a story (he's a museum guide). The plot involves poor, dim Ted being dispatched to Africa (where we meet George) to come up with an "attraction" so fabulous it will save the Bloomsbury Museum. For a while George the icon, a little, furry ball of adorable cuteness, is quite amusing. It's the old kind of cartoon, drawn in the open, friendly style of H.A. Rey, the books' illustrator, nuanced simplicity at the approximate level of a fine New Yorker cartoon. But that nuance is nowhere in this version. It's pretty elementary. (SH)

DATE MOVIE (PG-13, 81 minutes) Big girl Julia (Alyson Hannigan) is determined to lose as many of her 389 pounds as possible. When she meets British bachelor Grant Fonckerydoder (Adam Campbell), she has a reason to slim isn't much more story to impart; the movie is basically bad sight gags and a laundry list of laugh lines that allude to "Hitch," "My Big Fat Greek Wedding," "My Best Friend's Wedding" and other romantic comedies. (DT)

DAVE CHAPPELLE'S BLOCK PARTY (R, 103 minutes) This film was shot in September 2004, when Dave Chappelle had just signed a $50 million deal for his comedy series. Watching him, there's not a hint of the events that would unfold: He bolted from the show's production, sparking wild speculation about his mental state. Instead, we get a home-movie-ish documentary that follows him from his rural retreat in Ohio to a free concert he hosts in Brooklyn. There's an innocent joy and a genial detachment, as if he's playing host to his own celebrity. But there's something deeper at work. Even with his cutting racial satire, he seems uniquely positioned to appeal to white and black Americans. (DT)

DOOGAL (G, 85 minutes) This snarky animated adventure about a dog named Doogal who battles an evil sorcerer is a tiresome, cliché-ridden snore. The title character is a selfish little mutt; his pals aren't much more original or likable. With any luck, this movie, which stars the voices of Jon Stewart, William H. Macy, Jimmy Fallon and Whoopi Goldberg, will be on its way out of theaters by the time you read this. (AH)

EIGHT BELOW (PG, 120 minutes) Eight canines pull their weight literally and figuratively in this lively adventure. For dog lovers, the question is not whether they will cry, but how hard. The movie, a remake of the 1983 Japanese film "Antarctica" (based on true events) starts out with a gripping setup, in which National Science Foundation guide Jerry Shepard (Paul Walker) takes an arrogant scientist on an expedition. When a storm forces the humans to evacuate, Jerry is told he can't go back for the dogs. The movie is an often agonizing depiction of how these animals save themselves, and the sequences of them trying to survive are magnificent and deeply moving. (AH)

FINAL DESTINATION 3 (R, 92 minutes) The third movie in this series underscores how inevitably death comes to those who are, well, in the cast. The movie allows gleeful comfort in the destruction of the stupid and doomed. (DT) along with his family, by a criminal mastermind who knows Jack designed the security for a global bank. Jack must save his family and outwit the bad guys. Unfortunately, Ford's brand of action-hero has become obsolete — at least for him. Although the actor looks great for 63, the job calls for vigor and virility. Flagging energy isn't the only issue; Ford has become enslaved in his own clichés. (DT)

FREEDOMLAND (R, 113 minutes) Detective Council (Samuel L. Jackson) is walking his beat in a project. Brenda Martin (Julianne Moore) says her car was hijacked by a black man nearby, and Council must interview her. Brenda tearfully admits that her 4-year-old son was in the back seat, a late-emerging fact that sparks the detective's doubts. What starts out looking like just another ripped-from-the-headlines story becomes much more complex. This would have made a fascinating film if it were one movie. Instead, it turns into several movies, none fully realized and becomes an overwrought melodrama. (AH)

GAY SEX IN THE '70S (Unrated, 72 minutes) Joseph Lovett's documentary is an engrossing piece of social history, a well-documented excavation of the period between June 1969 and June 1981

Entertainment | Weekend

Now Playing

when gay men in New York experienced a burst of sexual liberation. With candid interviews, pornographic film clips and a cache of archival photographs, Lovett re-creates the bathhouse-and-bar sex scene that started out celebratory, but wound up dangerously compulsive. Like a discreet voyeur, Lovett lets viewers into a world that for most has been cloaked in shadow, and although it's a sobering, cautionary tale, it ends more on a note of rueful optimism than regret. (AH)

GOOD NIGHT, AND GOOD LUCK (PG-13, 93 minutes) George Clooney, who directed and co-wrote, retells the story of crusading journalist Ed Murrow, who stood up to braying political bully Joe McCarthy. The stylizations of '50s TV drama, including black-and-white cinematography, are terrific. Clooney casts himself as Murrow's producer, Fred W. Friendly, but hardly registers. Strathairn dominates the movie with furious intelligence, guts, will and nobility. (SH)

A GOOD WOMAN (PG, 93 minutes) Screenwriter Howard Himelstein set this clever rearranging of Oscar Wilde's first great play — "Lady Windermere's Fan" — among a smart set of fey aristo expat decadents on Italy's picturesque Amalfi coast in the early '30s. Lady Windermere is American (Scarlett Johansson). It's a good move, as Mrs. Windermere seems stupid and spoiled and that's within Johansson's grip. This movie retains Wilde's sense of pace and place and snappy one-liners and finds a new way to showcase them brilliantly. (SH)

KING KONG (PG-13, 187 minutes) This film features Jack Black as energetic film entrepreneur Carl Denham, who hires a tramp steamer, tricks playwright Jack Driscoll (Adrien Brody), movie star Bruce Baxter (Kyle Chandler) and untested actress Ann Darrow (Naomi Watts) into joining him on Skull Island. There he discovers a 25-foot-tall ape to whom they offer apparently virgin-bride sacrifices. But Kong sees Darrow and falls in hot monkey love. The movie is full of mesmerization, astonishment, thrills, chills, spills, kills and ills, a big monkey picture show that's certainly the best popular entertainment of the year. (SH)

MADEA'S FAMILY REUNION (PG-13, 107 minutes) This Tyler Perry movie is a cultural phenomenon, and understanding that is key to understanding the world of Madea (Perry in a dress, wig and big-breasted fat suit), a tenderhearted black woman who talks straight as she tries to guide lost and broken souls. Some can point to other films of higher artistic qual-

WEINSTEIN COMPANY

Wickedder Than Thou

WHY THE WEINSTEIN company is unleashing this rotting carcass of a movie on the country — or is it the area? Is there some sort of cartoon raincloud over Washington's head, cinematically speaking? — for what may be the second time within a few months is a mystery. But not one worth pondering. Johnny Depp stars as the famously debauched John Wilmont, Second Earl of Rochester, and everyone else wears very big wigs and lots of facial prosthetics. The unlikeable Earl is not redeemed by the love of a strong woman (a la the rosily rethought story of another real-life rake, "Casanova"), and he cannot convince us that he's a true artist just by using the excuse of rejecting conventional society to be rude. ARION BERGER (EXPRESS) ity that deal with resurrecting broken and battered souls of African Americans. Yet Perry has figured out how to deliver his message in a way that has mass appeal. (MP)

MATCH POINT (R, 124 minutes) In Woody Allen's new film, Jonathan Rhys-Meyers plays Chris Wilton, a retired tennis player who has given up the pro circuit to teach the rich and untalented. When one of his students — easygoing Tom Hewett (Matthew Goode) — invites him to the opera, a new world opens before him. But no sooner has Chris started dating Tom's sister Chloe (Emily Mortenson) when he meets Nola (Scarlett Johansson), Tom's sultry fiancée. This British-made film is elegant, uncompromising and oh-so nasty. (DT)

MEMOIRS OF A GEISHA (PG-13, 120 minutes) This movie is everything you'd expect it to be: beautiful, mesmerizing, tasteful, Japanese. Yet it just sits there, glorious but fitfully absorbing, never remotely enticing. (SH)

MRS. HENDERSON PRESENTS (R, 102 minutes) From the first few moments, it's clear what this film will be: a whimsical period piece that, despite some quietly bawdy double-entendres and a lovely performance from the always dignified Dame Judi Dench, can't escape being a bittwee. (AH)

MUNICH (R, 140 minutes) Steven Spielberg's film focuses on a small Israeli killing team tasked with hunting and destroying the Palestinian Black September planners of the Munich

ROMANCE BY THE NUMBERS

Been There, Fell In Love With That

EVERYTHING ABOUT "Failure to Launch" screams "typical romantic comedy," from the cutesy title to the absurdly contrived premise. Matthew McConaughey plays a 35-year-old boat salesman who still lives with his parents. The folks (Kathy Bates and Terry Bradshaw) hire Sarah Jessica Parker's character, a life interventionist, to make him fall for her and inspire him to leave the nest. Which technically makes her a prostitute, but whatever. Semantics. You know from the start how this will play out. And yet some elements elevate it, including Bates, Bradshaw and Zooey Deschanel. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

Olympics massacre of 1972 across Europe and the Middle East. Give the movie credit for its rigor in facing the depressing problem of vengeance. But the film uses memories of the Munich Olympics massacre. Those events should be more than just fodder for ginning up tension at the end of a commercial movie. (SH)

NANNY MCPHEE (PG, 97 minutes) Nanny McPhee is the nanny you hire when all other nannies fail — that's the idea of this movie. If only the film, starring and scripted by Emma Thompson, lived up to its promise. The movie should have been a fabulous romp about authority — the fun, the frisson and the consequences of defying it. Unfortunately, Thompson evokes no such irreverence and energy. (DT)

NEIL YOUNG: HEART OF GOLD (PG, 103 minutes) In Jonathan Demme's understated documentary, singer-songwriter Neil Young performs new songs in Nashville's storied Ryman Auditorium with an unmistakable air of celebration. He had been told he faced a life-threatening aneurysm, and before submitting to the knife, he composed and recorded a flood of songs. The 60-year-old survived the operation, and here he is at his relaxed, philosophical and endearing best, both in his songs and soft-spoken patter. As we see at the Ryman, Young still has a lot of road — and music

Cyprus Air can also install a small propane tank behind your chimney so you can enjoy the beauty, comfort and warmth of gas logs that require no venting. All the heat stays in the room.

A large natural flame uses a minimum of gas and offers moneysaving 99% fuel efficiency. You can burn the logs with the damper open or closed. A closed damper will keep the room heated. No soot or ashes to worry about. Our sets include an oxygen depletion sensor for safe, unvented operation and is design-certified by CSA.

NIGHT WATCH (R, 116 minutes) This Russian film is a swiftly moving plunge into a world populated by vampires, seers, shape-shifters and spellbinders. It is an adaptation of the science fiction-fantasy novel of the same name and, like all sci-fi fantasies, is full of tiresome exposition and convenient loopholes. But director Timur Bekmambetov handles these narrative bumps with ease, infusing even the goriest of horror-movie clichés with equal parts macabre fascination and jaunty humor. (AH)

THE PINK PANTHER (PG, 92 minutes) Steve Martin dares to play Inspector Jacques Clouseau, the bumbling French policeman immortalized by Peter Sellers

DOGSAllen Sells Dignity

THE CREATIVE FUNK that has Disney updating almost anything it can find in its family-film vaults probably made it inevitable that the studio would end up sniffing around “The Shaggy Dog” again. Tim Allen’s “The Shaggy Dog” is a well-dispositioned but forgettable mutt without any new tricks. The movie’s sight gags are annoyingly monotonous, like the same staccato yelp of a dog incessantly barking a few houses down — an irritant, but not close enough or loud enough to drive you crazy.

Kristin Davis co-stars. DAVID GERMAIN (AP)

in Blake Edwards’s “Pink Panther” franchise. Those weren’t great films, but it was the little Sellers moments that made even the weakest “Pink Panther” a cinematic untouchable. In this version, most of the humor derives from Martin’s silly French accent. (AH)

16 BLOCKS (PG-13, 105 minutes) This movie follows dispirited cop Jack Mosley (Bruce Willis) as he is assigned to escort crook Eddie Bunker (Mos Def) across Lower Manhattan to testify before a grand jury in two hours’ time. What neither realize is that the guy Eddie is about to blow the whistle on is a cop, and if he’s indicted, that cop will rat out an elite group of detectives. So the cops improvise a series of assassination attempts along what is basically the Chinese New Year parade route to wipe out Eddie and, if necessary, Jack. This feeble thriller is full of nonsense and implausibilities. (SH)

SOMETHING NEW (PG-13, 100 minutes) Kenya McQueen (Sanaa Lathan) is an African-American woman who goes on a blind date with a white man (Simon Baker). But her girlfriends and family make it clear they’re not thrilled about this union, and the closer they get to one another, the more race matters. The fun — and the seriousness — of the movie is in watching a beautiful woman challenge an equal opponent. (DT)

SYRIANA (R, 126 minutes) George Clooney plays CIA operative Bob Barnes, an avuncular career agent who used to know where all the bodies were buried — mainly because he did most of the digging. This is a premium-octane thriller about a society that has become insidiously dependent on oil. (DT)

THE THREE BURIALS OF MELQUIADES ESTRADA (R, 97 minutes) Rancher Pete Perkins (Tommy Lee Jones), needs a good man, and Melquiades (the noble Julio Cesar Cedillo) is the best cowboy he ever knew. Then someone puts a .223 through Melquiades's rib cage, and he dies in the dust. Jones is in just about every scene in this taut, provocative film. The film is about white people who learn through stunning adventures that nameless, faceless immigrants are actually humans. It's not earth-shattering, but it is painful and unforgettable. (SH)

TRISTRAM SHANDY: A COCK AND BULL STORY (R, 94 minutes) Laurence Sterne's "Tristram Shandy," published in 1759, was said to be impossible to film, because there's no story: It begins with Tristram's conception and finishes with his birth. The writer keeps getting sidetracked, diverted and spun this way and that. Filmmaker Michael Winterbottom hasn't made a movie about Tristram Shandy: He's made a movie about how hard it is to make a movie of "Tristram Shandy." The conceit is clever and funny. You don't actually watch the film so much as indulge and admire it. (SH)

ULTRAVIOLET (90 minutes, PG-13) An ultra-stupid fusion of sci-fi cliché, cyberspace stylings, and wretched kung fu antics, starring Milla Jovovich's muscle-y stomach — the only fascinating thing in this movie. She plays a "hemophage," a genetically engineered superhuman who, having tasted the pleasures of Godhood, does not want to give them up. With her chums (whose stomachs are not nearly as interesting), she wages war on the high lords of society. It's navel warfare. Jovovich wins all the fights, whether the odds are two to one or 2,000 to one. The plot involves a weapon of mass destruction being aimed against the hemophages — an obstacle Jovovich can't seem to conquer. So everybody's ticked at her. What's a girl to do? Kill everybody. (SH)

UNDERWORLD 2: EVOLUTION (R, 106 minutes) Vampires and werewolves have long, heated exchanges about who killed whose father, who's been imprisoned for centuries and so on. You'll never keep up. Appreciate the special effects and Kate Beckinsale, who's in fine form and body-hugging leather. (DT)

WALK THE LINE (PG-13, 136 minutes) This movie gets off to a promising start, sure to raise goose bumps, at the gates of Folsom Prison in 1968. Unfortunately, for all its good music and admirable vocal impersonations (by Joaquin Phoenix and Reese Witherspoon), the movie slides — very, very slowly — downhill from there. (AH)

WHY WE FIGHT (PG-13, 98 minutes) Of all the incendiary, left-wing, anti-Bush screeds that seem to have become the flavor of the decade in the American documentary community, Eugene Jarecki's is probably the best. Jarecki isn't just a polemicist, he's also a filmmaker. He understands narrative. The argument is that America is foolish and knavish in that it depends on a war economy and that the secret purpose of its foreign policy is to find enemies to justify huge military spending. A few subtler stories are filtered through the rhetoric. (SH)

LADY WITH A SWORD

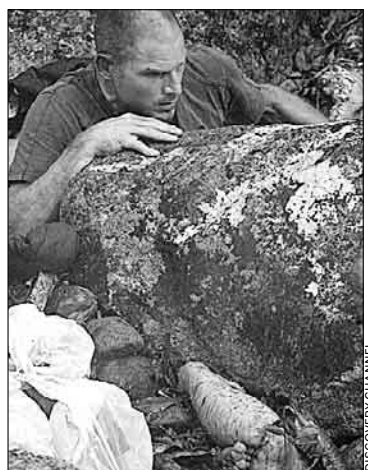

WARRIOR QUEEN BOUDICA (Fri., 8 p.m., History) A true tale of first-century Britons rebelling against Roman occupation, "Boudica" combines interview footage, computer graphics and often-rousing battle-scene re-enactments. She was the British tribal queen who raised an army of 70,000 that quickly routed a local Roman force and burned several cities, including ancient London, to the ground. Calling on historical sources ancient and modern, this tale of cultural clashes, occupation and insurgency resonates to this very day.

Sports Weekend

GOAL RUSH: Capitals rookie sensation Alex Ovechkin has scored in seven straight games — including Wednesday vs. Pittsburgh — to bring his year's total to 42 goals.

Head of the Class

Alex Ovechkin keeps proving why he's the league's best rookie

CAPITALS | With one quarter of a long, often frustrating season to play, there is one trophy still within reach for the rebuilding Capitals.

That piece of hardware is the Calder Memorial Trophy, awarded to the NHL's top rookie since 1933. Coming off a superb performance in Wednesday's 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh and on a seven-game goal-scoring streak, Caps winger Alex Ovechkin has taken the lead in the most hotly contested, publicized rookie race in recent memory and is in position to add a real silver lining to his team's largely forgettable year.

"He has not practiced since he's come back from the Olympics. We're managing his ice time," said Caps Coach Glen Hanlon. "We're trying to play four lines here and trying to give everybody an opportunity, but we're also wanting to make sure that Alexander gets the spotlight that he needs to win the Calder Trophy."

A little extra rest certainly seemed to make a difference on Wednesday, when the energetic Russian outplayed preseason Calder favorite Sidney Crosby and tormented Pittsburgh with 10 shots, two assists and a goal.

"I feel better and I feel fresh," Ovechkin said. "I didn't think about [Crosby]. I think about how we must win the game. I'm happy I'm scoring."

Ovechkin is scoring at a stunning rate and is having no trouble commanding the spotlight on his own.

CAPS TRADE WITT

Moves comes before deadline:

→ The Capitals traded veteran defenseman Brendan Witt to the Nashville Predators on Thursday for a 2006 first-round draft pick and center Kris Beech before Thursday's NHL trading deadline.

→ Jeff Friesen was traded to Anaheim for a 2006 second-round draft pick and claimed forward Rico Fata off waivers.

Some observers even have mentioned Ovechkin's name among potential MVP candidates, although the Capitals 22-33-6 record likely will cancel that possibility.

Nevertheless, Ovechkin's impact can't be overstated.

He has distanced himself from one of the most talented rookie classes ever. His 42 goals rank second in the NHL and he is in the top 10 in nearly every other category. He is the only player in the league with twice as many goals, points and shots as any teammate and he is on pace to become only the second first-year player in NHL history to top 50 goals and 100 points.

He'll start that quest tonight against New Jersey at Verizon Center and continue it Sunday afternoon against visiting Ottawa. By lessening Ovechkin's load and monitoring his ice time, Hanlon is showing that in some special cases, one man's accomplishments can bring glory to the team. But there is no burden on Ovechkin.

"These guys, they don't give me any pressure. I feel very good here," he said. BRIAN STRAUS

SALES | A Red Bull Market Major League Soccer's MetroStars are being sold and renamed Red Bull New York. Anschutz Entertainment Group — which owns, among other teams, D.C. United — completed an agreement Thursday to sell the team to Red Bull Co. Ltd., an Austrian firm that manufactures an energy drink. Red Bull also bought naming rights for the soccer stadium the team hopes to build in Harrison, N.J., and will have 50 percent ownership. Red Bull said its Austrian and American teams will work together "in athletic areas as well as in management and marketing." (AP)

Weekend Sports

A Big Concern for Washington

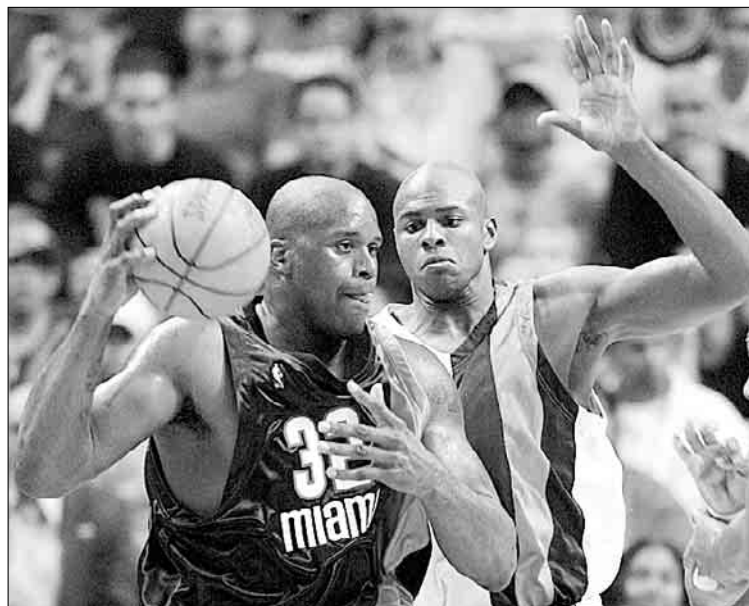

Opponents' centers finding lots of room to roam vs. Wizards

WIZARDS | Dear Shaq,

We saved a spot for you in the paint. It's a cozy area, right on top of the low-post arc. If the playoffs started today, you could park the RV you call a body there and dunk away. Don't worry about backing over us with your ... uh ... bumper. Even if we did mind, we seem hard-pressed to stop you.

Is this the script the Wizards will write come playoff time?

Forget about O'Neal (who scored 19 points in Wednesday's win over Washington) for a moment. The Wizards (30-30) had enough trouble in the paint Tuesday night against Boston. First they made Wally Szczerbiak look like Kevin McHale (without the bags under his eyes), then they let youngster Al Jefferson pound it down low in the fourth quarter.

"We had a couple breakdowns [in post defense] at crucial points in the game," forward Antawn Jamison said. "I didn't like the way we rebounded. They got rebounds when it really counted."

Sure, Jamison is having another solid season as a No. 2 scoring option behind All-Star point guard Gilbert Arenas. But the team's top rebounder (30 double-doubles) has a game more suited to a small forward than a pivot patrolman.

Meanwhile, Washington's center trio of Brendan Haywood, Etan Thomas and Michael Ruffin are a combined 10 for their last 25 from the floor and cumulatively have just seven double-doubles this season heading into Saturday's game against the Eastern Conference-leading Detroit Pistons.

"We had to punish them at the rim and we didn't," coach Eddie Jordan said after Tuesday's loss to Boston. "If you can't get it done at the rim against 6-foot-7 guys ... you've got to go with something else."

ERIC BRANDNER

Shaquille O'Neal scored 19 points against Brendan Haywood and the Wizards Wednesday. Washington's Achilles heel has been guarding big men this season.

Bowden Extended Through Season

NATIONALS | Washington Nationals general manager Jim Bowden's contract was extended through the end of the 2006 season on Thursday.

Bowden had been working under a six-month extension due to expire at the end of April. Assistant GM Tony Siegle's contract also was extended through the end of this season by the Nationals, who still are awaiting new ownership.

In player moves Thursday, the Nationals optioned first baseman Larry Broadway to Triple-A New Orleans and left-hander Michael Hinckley to Class-A Potomac.

Washington also reassigned 11 players to minor-league camp: outfielders Frank Diaz, Ruben Mateo and Cristian Guerrero; infielders Kory Casto and Josh Labandeira; catcher Erick San Pedro; right-handers Andrew Good and Francis Beltran; and left-handers Mike Bacsik, Micah Bowie and Jim Crowell. (AP)

Livan Strong in Debut

NATIONALS | So far, so good for Livan Hernandez.

Making his first start of the spring, the Washington Nationals ace pitched three solid innings in his team's 5-4 loss to the Florida Marlins on Thursday in a split-squad scrimmage at Space Coast Stadium.

Hernandez didn't allow a hit in the first two innings, and he hardly looked hampered by his surgically repaired right knee. The right-hander turned in one of the few defensive gems in a game that had five errors, four of which were committed by the Nationals.

After his spring debut, Hernandez said his knee felt good and that he expects to be ready for opening day.

"My knee feels better day by day," Hernandez said. "Every day I can walk better." (AP)

Plan A From Redskins Park

With labor agreement done, team aims to be active in free agency

REDSKINS | The Washington Redskins are back to Plan A.

With a new collective bargaining agreement between the NFL and players' union, coach and team president Joe Gibbs can revert to the game plan he originally envisioned for free agency: Cut a few expendable players to get under the salary cap, then start working the phones in pursuit of a receiver, a defensive back and maybe a defensive lineman at the very minute the market opens.

The cuts will be made Friday. The departures of safety Matt Bowen, cornerback Walt Harris, defensive tackle Brandon Noble and center Cory Raymer will save about $6.7 million under the cap. The Redskins also have $4.4 million in savings from the deal that made linebacker LaVar Arrington a free agent.

Add in a few standard restruc-

IN The Washington Post

a.m. Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Redskins are again hopeful they can work out a trade for quarterback Patrick Ramsey, who lost the starting job to Mark Brunell last year. The New York Jets, Miami and Detroit are the top contenders.

Washington also resumed negotiations to retain its own players. It agreed to terms with backup running back Rock Cartwright, an official with knowledge of the negotiations told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity. The Redskins were also talking to the only two starters eligible for free agency, safety Ryan Clark and tight end Robert Royal.

The team has also tendered guard Derrick Dockery, defensive back Ade Jimoh and linebacker Chris Clemons, making them restricted free agents.

The Redskins hope to have Clark re-signed by Friday night.

"I don't see why something shouldn't be able to be done," Joel Turner, Clark's agent, said Thursday. (AP)

McGinest became a free agent after the Patriots released him on Thursday.

Patriots Sack Star McGinest

NFL | The New England Patriots released linebacker Willie McGinest in a salary cap move, ending a 12-year relationship with the NFL's all-time postseason sack leader.

The release of the two-time Pro Bowler was announced Thursday, the day after the NFL owners voted 30-2 at their meeting in Grapevine, Texas, to extend the collective bargaining agreement with the players for six more years, resulting in a new salary cap figure of $102 million.

The 34-year-old McGinest carried a salary cap figure of more than $7 million for next season. He is now a free agent and can sign with any team, including New England. (AP)

Terrapins Are Ones to Watch

Maryland women sit and wait to see what seeding they receive

TERPS WOMEN | These are nerve-racking days for the Maryland Terrapins.

They haven't stepped on the court in a game situation since falling to North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship on Sunday. And it won't be until Monday that the Terps even find out their NCAA Tournament fate. One question lingers: Have they done enough to warrant a No. 1 seed?

On the surface, the answer would appear to be a resounding yes. Maryland (28-4, 12-3 in the ACC) enters Selection Monday as the No. 3 team in the nation. On their resume, they boast wins over a No. 1 ranked team (North Carolina on Feb. 9) and a No. 2 team (Duke on Saturday). They finished with the best regular-season record in school history, playing in the toughest conference in the nation.

SELECTION MONDAY

→ In a change from years past, the pairings for the NCAA women's tournament will be revealed at 7 p.m. on Monday. ESPN will carry the show, which previously came on an hour before the men's brackets on a Sunday. The men's field will still be announced Sunday at 6 p.m. on CBS.

"I think we deserve a No. 1 [seed]," junior Shay Doron said. "I can't see how the top four teams wouldn't get the top four seeds."

But sometimes things aren't what they seem. Some prognosticators still have the Terrapins pegged as a No. 2 seed in next week's tournament. One online poll, asking readers to give their opinion on the top team in the nation, lists five teams. Maryland isn't one of them.

The Terrapins appeared to make their statement in the conference tournament. They bounced back from a sluggish opening game to exorcise their biggest demon. Their semifinal victory over the Blue Devils broke a string of 14 straight losses to Duke.

As far as coach Brenda Frese is concerned, that was the icing on their ACC cake, even if they didn't quite put the cherry on top in the finals.

"Absolutely. I think that speaks for itself," said Frese. "I said this going into the tournament, the biggest thing we can do is win and to put yourself into the championship game speaks volumes for this team." DEREK TURNER

Dominicans Rout Italy to Remain Perfect in Classic

BASEBALL | The Dominican Republic is making it look easy in the World Baseball Classic.

Adrian Beltre hit his third home run in two games and Albert Pujols and Moises Alou also homered Thursday, leading the only unbeaten team in Pool D to a 8-3 victory over Italy.

Starting pitcher Odalis Perez gave up three early runs. But with an imposing supporting cast that also includes David Ortiz, the Dominicans didn't have any problem coming from behind.

The Dominicans, who rested shortstop Miguel Tejada, improved to 2-0. A win by heavily favored Venezuela over Australia Thursday night would send the DR to the second round. (AP)

Colonials: One and Done

Upset loss to Temple could harm GW's seed in NCAA Tournament

GW HOOPS | Temple's famously stingy defense got back to what it does best — breaking down opponents and creating havoc in tournament brackets.

The Owls' inscrutable zone left George Washington's high-powered offense in a shambles Thursday, setting up a 68-53 victory over the sixth-ranked Colonials in the A10 tournament quarterfinals.

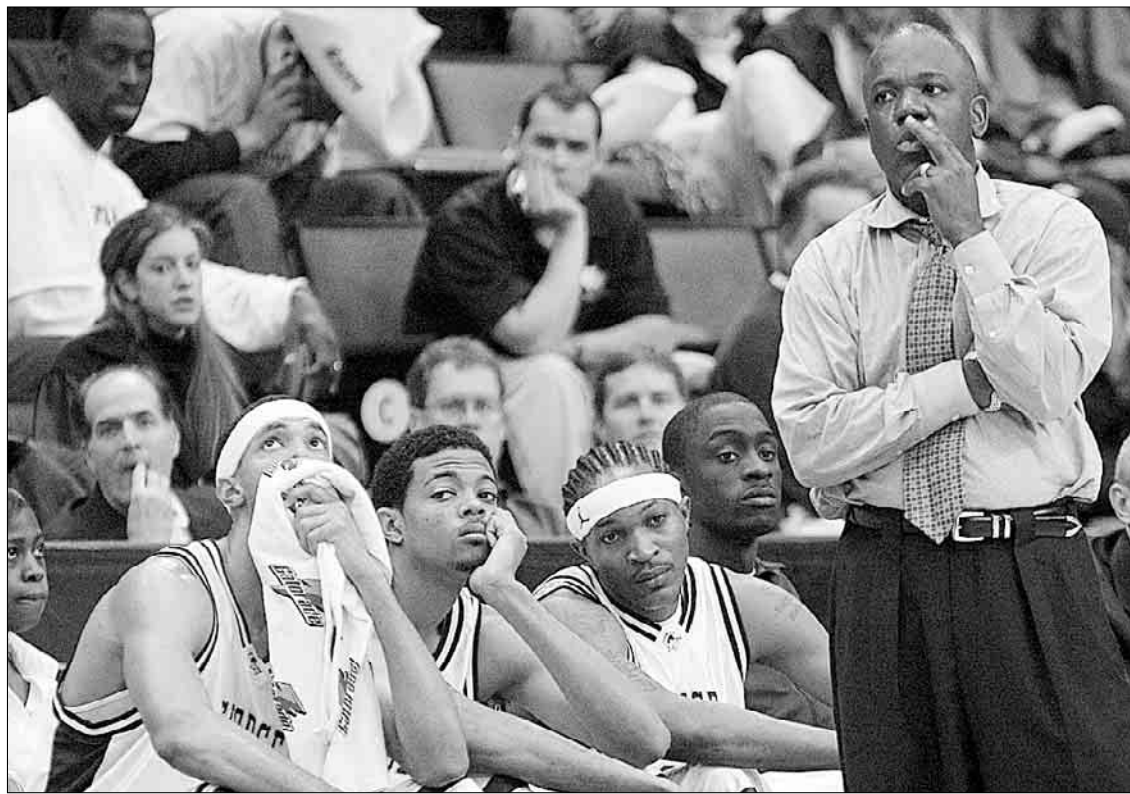

The upset will have a far-reaching effect. Now, the Atlantic 10 will get two teams in the NCAA tournament. And, someone from another conference will be left out.

Temple will play Saint Joseph's in the semifinals on Friday. The teams split their season series, with Temple winning 57-44 at home on Feb. 14.

The Colonials (26-2) never figured they'd be done so soon.

George Washington was only the fourth team to make it through the A10 regular season without a loss. The unblemished record ended against a team known for making opponents look bad at tournament time.

Coach John Chaney had his Owls sometimes switch from their famed matchup zone to other variations — a 2-1-2, a 3-2 — to prevent the Colonials' fastbreak from getting any traction.

"Temple played a fantastic game," George Washington coach Karl Hobbs said. "The elder statesman showed that he still knows how to get a team up and prepared to win a basketball game."

The Colonials came into the game as the only one-loss team in Division I, riding an 18-game winning streak. Against Temple, those lofty numbers became a burden. And loss No. 2 could well cost them a high NCAA seeding.

"But it's not the end of our season," said Mike Hall, who had 12 points but was 0-for-3 from behind the arc. "The teams we play in the tournament will be as tough if not tougher, and we've got to be better prepared." JOE KAY (AP)

ROUNDBALL WRAPUP

Highlights from other games in conference tournaments as Selection Sunday nears:

McNamara

→ Senior point guard Gerry McNamara led Syracuse to an 86-84 overtime victory over No. 1 Connecticut on Thursday in the quarterfinals of the Big East tournament.

→ Justin Gray had 25 points and Eric Williams added 14 to help Wake Forest beat Florida State 78-66 Thursday in the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, severely hurting the Seminoles' chances for an NCAA bid.

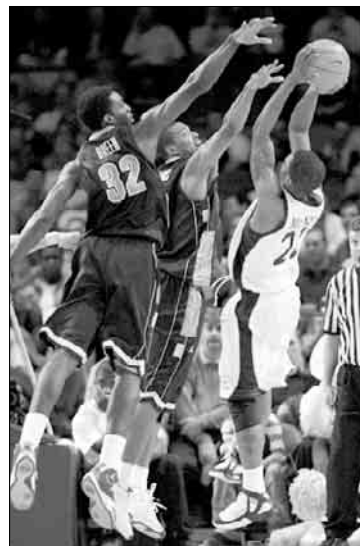

Hoyas Move to Semifinals

Win over Marquette sets up game vs. old school rival Syracuse

HOYAS HOOPS | After struggling offensively for 30 minutes, Brandon Bowman came through for Georgetown in the end.

Bowman went 6-for-6 from the free-throw line in the final minute to help No. 23 Georgetown hold off Marquette 62-59 on Thursday in the quarterfinals of the Big East tournament. "People have a tendency to look at points, but Brandon did all the things we needed to win," Georgetown coach John Thompson III said.

Bowman scored 12 of his 14 points in the final 10 minutes and had seven rebounds for the Hoyas (21-8).

Steve Novak hit his sixth 3-pointer with 5.6 seconds left to bring Marquette (20-10) within 60-59. But Bowman restored the three-point lead with two free throws with 5.1 seconds left. Jerel McNeal missed a 30-footer at the buzzer that would have tied the game.

Georgetown will face Syracuse on Friday night in the semifinals. It will be the 12th time the schools have met in the tournament, with Georgetown leading 6-5. Five of the meetings came in championship games, with Georgetown winning four. "It's Georgetown-Syracuse at the Garden, that says it all," Thompson said. DOUG FEINBERG (AP)

MARKETING | BY MATT SWENSON

Taking Red Bull By the Horns

A FRIEND OF MINE is all worked up over the Metrostars of MLS renaming themselves Red Bull New York after the energy drink bought the team this week.

I am too. Red Bull is gross. It tastes like bulls are actually in it.

But seriously, renaming a franchise after a product is about as stupid as naming a hockey team after an Emilio Estevez movie. Oh wait, that's been done.

The larger issue, of course, is that, just when it seemed we'd seen everything in the drive to make a buck in sports, this takes it to a whole new low.

Daniel Snyder must be jealous someone beat him to the punch. All he could think of was charging $35 just to park at FedEx Field.

Isn't it bad enough MLS allowed Real Salt Lake through?

Selling out names is a dangerous precedent, one that MLS should step in and stop. Isn't it bad enough that it allowed Real Salt Lake — the worst moniker in sports — to go through unchecked last year?

Even hockey's Mighty Ducks are, at long last, dropping the "mighty."

Red Bull is making no effort to hide the fact that its motivation for buying the team was simply to further promote its product rather than to actually run a sports franchise. Imagine cheering for the CNN Braves or the Washington Posts.

In this era where players switch teams more often than "American Idol" is on TV, fans have managed to remain loyal to franchises. But when franchises are loyal only to sponsors, are fans expected to cheer for corporations?

I'd rather drink a Red Bull.

New Chicago gallery recalls off-forgotten ancient African group

CHICAGO | As the Field Museum in Chicago geared up for another blockbuster visit this spring by the golden treasures of King Tutankhamun, the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago opened a new gallery devoted to ancient Nubia, the land from where all that gold came.

"Egypt didn't have any gold," explained Oriental Institute researcher Emily Teeter. "So when you look at the Tutankhamun art, you're seeing gold from Nubia, obtained either through trade or by conquest."

There's not much gold in the 600 artifacts on display in the new permanent gallery, but the collection contains treasure of a rarer kind: the fruits of 100 years of exploration and research into the poorly understood region that straddles the southern third of Egypt and the northern third of Sudan.

Some of the works on display, culled from the museum's 15,000-piece Nubian collection, are solemn and ceremonial. Others are utilitarian, such as a leather quiver, still glossy and supple-looking, that dates from the time of Christ.

But a surprising number, particularly among the ceramic pieces, use animal images in a surprisingly whimsical way. A smiling frog ("a symbol of rebirth," Teeter said) gazes heavenward. Cartoonish crocodiles march around one pot, and friendly looking cobras dance around another.

What at first seem to be limp flowers in the snakes' mouths prove great civilization of black Africa and maintained its own distinct culture from about 5000 B.C. until its conquest by Muslims, about A.D. 1500. But through most of that long history it was eclipsed by nearby Egypt. And because the Nubian language was an unwritten one for most of that time, its civilization is often seen through an Egyptian filter.

An additional problem stems from the constant give-and-take between Egypt and Nubia, which makes it difficult to determine which nation originated specific technologies and cultural styles. The Nubians are known to have adopted some Egyptian gods and funerary practices, including pyramids, but modern archaeologists suspect some motifs long thought to have been Egyptian might have been Nubian.

"The relations between Egypt and Nubia were incredibly complex," said Oriental Institute director Gil Stein. "To the Egyptians, at various times, Nubia represented a trading partner, an enemy in war, a supplier of troops, a conquered colony and even a conqueror."

Museum director Geoff Emberling said that in 747 B.C., Egypt's government had collapsed and Thebes came under attack by warlords. The Thebans called on Nubia's King Piankhy for aid. Piankhy saved Thebes and then conquered and reunified Egypt.

"He established the largest empire ever seen on the continent of Africa," Emberling said. F.N. D'ALESSIO (AP) on a second look to be Egyptian religious symbols.

The liveliness of the Nubian pots couldn't be further from the stiff religious art of Egypt. They hint at the strange relationship between the two civilizations.

For several millennia, Nubia served as the conduit through which the riches of sub-Saharan Africa — precious metals, animal hides, spices and incense — reached Egypt and the Mediterranean world.

Local Roundup

Post columnist MARC FISHER was online Thursday and talked about Marion Barry, Metro board meals and the definition of "pimp." | washingtonpost.com/liveonline

I'm no fan of Barry's and I lived in D.C. for a time when he was mayor. He has many, many strikes against him. That said, is it possible the judge saw him for what he is — a pitiful old man with no real power or control for whom neither jail time nor a fine would make any difference?

Barry's lawyer made a point of noting that he is a "70-year-old man" with virtually no money. But please, how does that in any way excuse what he did? This is the man who was responsible for imposing and collecting taxes on the District's residents, and he then spits in the face of all of his supporters and acts as if he's above the law. Doesn't the system owe him and the citizens at least a nod toward justice and even-handedness? Weekends in jail? Or even probation on the condition that he resign from public office?

Yes or no: is there anything the D.C. Council can do at this point to derail the stadium?

Yes, it will be possible at many points along the road for the council, and for a new mayor and council, to be elected later this year, to cause major delays, headaches and additional expenses. But no, it is now extremely unlikely verging on impossible for the entire deal to be nullified.

I'm in the minority that's not bothered by Metro Board's catered lunch — these are board members and are entitled to be treated as such — as long as they perform. We're talking about, what, $20K/yr? If that's what makes them perform, so be it.

Maybe it's a question of scale, but to me, $20,000 is a huge sum to spend on lunches, and just because someone is on the Metro board doesn't mean they need to eat anything fancier than a tuna on rye.

So I'm curious, how did you define "pimp" for your daughter when she asked?

It was my son, actually (he's 10 and learned the meaning of that nice word from the Academy Awards show on TV the other night.) And after a brief, awkward pause, the wife and I looked at each other and came up with something like this: "It's a criminal who organizes and controls women who sell themselves to men for sexual activity." He seemed satisfied with that.

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) This is a good day to pursue an emotional reward that has eluded you in the recent past. Don't give up until you've enjoyed some satisfaction.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to start taking the very advice you've been giving others lately. Listen to yourself as well as others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You won't want to break up the team—but there is something important that you must do on your own. There is room for private pursuits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll enjoy a considerable advantage over your competitors, and the results of your efforts are sure to please you and those close to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to be noticed for something that is entirely unintentional. The trick, of course, will be repeating yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A figure from your past is likely to intrude on your thoughts and dreams. Could there be a lesson to learn as a result? Yes indeed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An unexpected burst of energy is likely to enable you to get past a major obstacle in a most dramatic and showy manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Creativity is not to be undervalued—but trust that practical concerns deserve their due as well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You will attract some unusual types into your orbit; be prepared to make some snap-judgments and stick to them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your income is on the rise at this time, but that doesn't mean you can relax your purse strings just yet. Keep spending under control still.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A complex issue will be illuminated, and someone close to you will expect you to come up with just the right plan at the right time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Stamina is everything, even in domestic affairs. You may actually find it necessary to burn the candle at both ends right now.

EWVV Creepy Technology Stuns

The daughter of FRANK SINATRA saw her father take the stage Wednesday at a London theater — thanks to technology that has helped create an unusual new musical. Nancy Sinatra, 65, visited Britain to see a 24-piece orchestra provide backing to movie footage of the entertainer. Never-before-seen pictures and film are displayed across a series of angled screens and give the impression of Sinatra moving across the stage. (AP)

CASTING No One Told Her 'Desperate Housewives' Is So Over

SANDRA BULLOCK has agreed to star in a film about "Peyton Place" author Grace Metalious, whose bestselling novel scandalized the nation and ruined the author's life. "Grace Metalious was a housewife with three kids running around with runny noses, living in a town where she didn't belong, didn't fit in," said co-producer Carol Baum. "Meanwhile ... she was writing the sexiest novel in history." (AP)

NPR has put employees on MUTE

Fairness in the workplace is just as important as fairness in reporting, except at NPR. Before skilled technicians reviewed their latest contract, management threatened to end talks if it wasn't approved. But technicians refused to sign off on a bad deal. So management walked.

NPR still won't negotiate with NABET-CWA and continues to make sweeping changes in technical work without regard for the quality of its product, its dedicated employees or listeners.

Help NABET-CWA send NPR a message:

Give workers respect. Not threats. Negotiate a fair contract.

* THINGS WE FIND REAL, NON-TWIN, BUSINESS-LIKE, ANTI-HIPPIE AND RETRO

2 Reality Rides

In case there's someone in America who hasn't been on a reality show yet, Paramount's Great America amusement park in Santa Clara, Calif., is inviting visitors to hop on Survivor The Ride. The world's first reality roller-coaster introduces a competitive phase: Riders join one of two tribes, then shout chants and perform "ritual dance movements," which cause water to spray out of "native masks" on the other team. Then they get to ride in a circular vessel while climbing hills in the "rugged terrain."

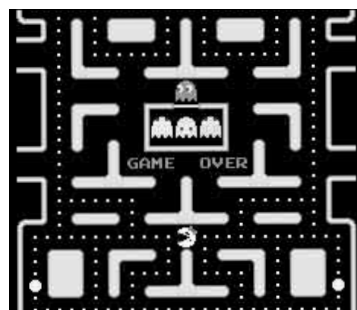

1 Twins Who Are Not Twins

When an advertising campaign's so hoary it's tattooed on the upper arm of the collective unconscious, it's time for a change. And nothing is changier than taking a pure, all-American, idealistic icon like the Doublemint Twins and turning it into a sophomoric, faux-ironic, flash-in-the-pan gimmick — much like the item it's promoting. New Doublemint Twins mints are the first new product from the revered brand in over 90 years. The marketing campaign: People who are not twins, but are dressed alike, singing, "New Doublemint Twins are different. They're mints." Which are not gum.

5 Business Class Forever

Jetting about in coach can squish your legs, but upgrading can squish your wallet. MAXjet, the all-business class airline, is hoping to give peons a taste of the good life by charging just $999 for the transatlantic jaunt between Dulles and London's Stansted Airport. Sure it's a few hundred bucks more than coach, but you get multi-course meals, wine — in stemmed glasses! how luxe! — and, most importantly, way more wiggle room.

4 iPod Pac-Man

Some nice Linux programmers have reengineered a game emulator to allow iPod Nano and video iPod owners to play Pac-Man (sort of — it'll take a little tinkering). Go to ipodlinux.org/ipodmame.

3 Stop Stickers!

Hippies don't have a monopoly on defacing stop signs with clever slogans. For $10 at glarkware.com, you'll receive 10 "counter-hippie" stickers, such as "[Stop] Is the New Go."

From D.C. to E!

No one knows the red carpet like Giuliana

Walking the red carpet can be grueling for starlets, but it ain't easy on the other side of the gauntlet either — although viewers watching Giuliana DePandi would never know. The E! News co-host, who completed the network's pre-Oscars coverage triumvirate with Ryan Seacrest and Isaac Mizrahi, is now the ultimate Hollywood insider. But the Bethesda native didn't know a soul when she moved out to the West Coast. Express' Vicky Hallett got the dish on awards season and DePandi's obsession with Condi's workout buddy.

What did you have to do to prepare for the Oscars?

I had to get two dresses — one for the red carpet and one for covering the after-parties. There was hair and makeup. You have to get a facial a few days before. I started two weeks beforehand.

Yet, you had problems with dress #2 because you ate a burrito?

True. I was so happy to get the big show over with, and I was starving. We had two hours of downtime and there was a Baja Fresh across the street. I told myself I would just eat a bite, but I went to town on the burrito and the chips. Then my sister, who's my stylist, tried to zip me into my dress and I didn't fit. I had to borrow a fake fur shawl at the last minute to avoid an on-air wardrobe malfunction.

How did you get from D.C. to this?

I always wanted to be an anchorwoman. I loved Barbara Harrison. I remember watching her as a kid on TV and then seeing her at Mazza Gallerie and thinking she had such an amazing job. After the University of Maryland I went to American University for journalism. I covered Capitol Hill, the Supreme Court, DePandi can ease up on her diet restrictions now that the Oscars are over. Her dinner Tuesday night? A "Gotta Have It" size serving from Cold Stone Creamery.

the Pentagon.

Do you miss the Pentagon?

I don't. I love fashion and celebrity scoop more than interviewing Ted Kennedy. I asked him what was the last important movie he saw and he said, "What does that have to do with anything?" All of my professors would say my stories were too featurey.

Is it weird seeing the celebrities you cover around town?

I run into them and I used to think, "Did I report something bad about them?" I got a little nervous. But they live for this stuff. I saw Paris Hilton one time and I told her, "I'm so sorry we've been putting you on the show so much." And she said, "Why wasn't I the lead story?"

What do you do when you visit D.C.?

My dad has a store at White Flint [Bruno Cipriani], so I make these cable commercials when I go home. I even dragged my poor ex-boyfriend [Jerry O'Connell] into doing one.

"I loved Barbara Harrison. I remember watching her as a kid and thinking she had such an amazing job."

Will you ever get too big to do the commercials?

You're never too big for your Italian father. He'll make sure of that. My parents are incredible. They came to America for us. I would be on billboards for them. Part of me wants to become even bigger, so I can do more.

What else do you do in D.C.?

I love going to the mall. I shop at Bloomies and I eat at the Cheesecake Factory and hang out at Borders. My parents are there all day long so I hang out with them. When we're not there, we go to La Tomate, Café Milano and the Pines of Rome.

Why do all celebrities eat at Café Milano?

I should do a piece on that. Didn't Clooney hang out there when he was in town? Café Milano would be huge in L.A. Over the years, it's stayed exclusive and hip.

Any dreams to take over when Barbara Harrison retires?

I always think one day I'll grow tired of the plastic and the gossip and want something more solid. I could move back there. I can't think of somewhere else I'd rather be. I'd love to anchor at one of the local affiliates. I'd love to go full circle.

> The Manolo

ANSWERS FROM THE SHOELOGGER

My husband and I are heading to Mexico. He is very stylish, and we are stymied by his beach options. Is there anything for the self-respecting man who doesn't appreciate the flip-flop? —LAURA

Manolo says, this is the new dilemma for the mens who are travelling in the regions of the tropics: what to wear now that the white linen suit, the panama hat and the white buck shoes are no longer in the fashion? Sadly, what has replaced this dignified and classic look is something that may perhaps be described as the "Robinson Crusoe Tatterdemalion", with the raggedy-baggity board shorts, the stretched-out, stained tank top advertising Mr. Zog's Sex Wax and the flip-flops that appear to have been constructed of the plastic palm fronds and coconut fibers. In place of this garish and juvenile "getup," the Manolo proposes that you take as your mantra, WWJTBD? What Would The Jimmy Buffet Do? And thus the answer to the question, it is do as the Jimmy Buffet does, by wearing the presentable khaki shorts, the untucked Hawaiian shirt of the high quality and the leather sandals of the manly shape and cut, such as the Capistrano from the Tommy Bahama ($129, zappos.com).

Oh baby, you make me wanna just toss you into a triple toe loop right now.

Cutting It Two Close

A cult favorite takes us back to the rink

Two words can make any woman's heart melt: "Toe pick." The oft-quoted line from the best ice-skating romance movie ever, 1992's "The Cutting Edge," got slashed from "The Cutting Edge: Going for the Gold," a sequel/rehash that premieres March 12 on ABC Family and on DVD March 28. "We tried the catchphrase, 'Get off of me,' instead," explained Christy Carlson Romano, who plays Jackie Dorsey, the stubborn daughter of the original duo (who are, alas, not played by Moira Kelly and D.B. Sweeney). Jackie is a twentysomething diva training to compete at the Olympic winter games in Torino. But when she smacks the ice during a triple, she must scale back her jumps and segue from individual skating to pairs. Obviously, no male skaters are up to snuff, so she gets stuck with extreme inline skater/hottie Alex Harrison. At first, their personalities clash, but then ...

Sound familiar? Purists may scoff, but the tale is still mushily satisfying. And even if the special effects were low-budget ("They had me hoisted up in a split for 30 minutes straight and two crew guys were pushing me around in a circle," Carlson Romano noted), the skating looks spectacular. VICKY HALLETT (EXPRESS)

Yay! More paper clips from Germany.

Paper Clips ($25)

Although twisted pieces of wire are super at holding your papers together, the students at Whitwell Middle School in Tennessee found a higher purpose for the office supply: collect enough to represent all the Jews who died in the Holocaust. While debunking stereotypes of small-town white Southerners, this doc tracks the project as responses from all around the world come in at a rapid clip. (Media attention from D.C.-based journalists, including The Washington Post, gave them a boost.) After gathering millions of paper clips, they acquired an antique German rail car to store them in and created a children's Holocaust memorial.

MUSIC

Pay the Devil BY VAN MORRISON

(LOST HIGHWAY, $14)

In recent years, Van Morrison has sold his soul to erratic performances.

But the Belfast

Cowboy sounds totally at home in this range of country classics, invested with emotional focus and feeling that make his latest stylistic venture a surprisingly natural fit. One moment he's deftly channeling George Jones, the next he's putting his personal stamp on the warhorse "Your Cheatin' Heart." Fiddle and pedal steel grace seamless traditional arrangements that make it hard to believe he recorded in Ireland with his own band. Three Morrison originals, the best of which is the jaunty "This Has Got to Stop," hold their weight as well. After a feisty reading of the Conway Twitty favorite "What Am I Living For," the singer can be overheard saying "That was worth it" to studio hands. His broader-minded fans should agree.

IF YOU LIKE: Soulful honky-tonk, lyrical line-dancing.

IF YOU DON'T LIKE: Morrison in half-hearted mode. PAUL ROBICHEAU

Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire: Special Edition ($28)

Finally, someone put the magic back into a DVD special edition. There are about 10 minutes of deleted scenes on this two-disc set, most notably the full performance of the rock band at the Yule Ball and a conversation between the odious Severus Snape and Igor Karkaroff about their ties to He Who Must Not Be Named. More enchanting, though, are the handful of simple DVD games — which you play with the up, down, left, right arrows on the remote control — that let you compete in each of the three Triwizard Tournament challenges or zap Death Eaters, first-person shooter style, as you escape from the cemetery. Even the mini-docs are more entertaining than usual, showing off details of the computer-animated dragons and Lord Voldemort's makeup that you're too involved in the story to catch during the film.

American Movie Critics: An Anthology from the Silents Until Now

EDITED BY PHILLIP LOPATE (THE LIBRARY OF AMERICA, $40)

Not too long ago, film was seen as populist poop to which no respectable writer would ever devote any prose. That changed, thanks to the likes of poet Vachel Lindsay, and later the New Yorker's Pauline Kael, and now Manohla Dargis, whose review of "The History of Violence" is the most recent in this compendium. The criticism, which ranges from Friday newspaper reviews to brainy academic deconstruction, can be powerful literature as well, like Melvin B. Tolson's take that "'Gone With the Wind' Is More Dangerous Than 'Birth of a Nation.'" To all but real cinema geeks, however, many of the films mentioned will be fairly obscure.

FIRST LINE: "Let us assume, friendly reader, that it is eight o'clock in the evening when you make yourself comfortable in your den, to peruse this chapter."

IF YOU LIKE: Mis-en-scene, Michelangelo Antonioni. V.H.

Make famous dudes play street soccer.

VIDEO GAMES

FIFA Street 2 (PS2, PSP, GAMECUBE, NINTENDO DS, XBOX, ELECTRONIC ARTS, $30)

Let's face it: Soccer juggling tricks will never have the wow factor of such aerial feats as a monster basketball dunk or a wicked snowboard trick. For this reason alone, FIFA Street 2 fails to deliver the juiced-up thrills players expect from arcade-style sports games. But with 20 national teams and 320 professional players (Yes, Becks and Ronaldo are there), the four-on-four gameplay on streets such London's Westway Highway and NYC's Harlem does pick up the pace a bit.

Why My Wife Thinks I'm an Idiot

BY MIKE GREENBERG (VILLARD, $23)

It's not easy being Greeny. Just ask the ESPN Radio host and "SportsCenter" anchor, who recounts his sometimes successful, sometimes not attempts at raising a family while being "a little famous." Greenberg's appropriately self-deprecating approach makes the book — essentially a series of journal entries — enjoyable enough for the two hours it takes to read.

There's not much new here on the battle of the sexes — he spends a whole page on "Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus" — but what can you expect from someone who follows sports for a living?

FIRST LINE: "I have been a metrosexual since long before there was such a word."

↑ Perky hummingbirds buzz over a surreal silk embroidery landscape on a made-in-Vietnam tote. Its hip-right-now shade of purple would pair nicely with a black dress or a lavender bridesmaid's frock. ($60)

Peep! Chirp! Squawk! Yep, spring birds are already making a racket outside. This season, warblers, peacocks, even owls are also landing on housewares and women's fashions. The trend leans toward Disney sweet, not Hitchcock spooky, with whimsical avians on delicate necklaces, mod pillows and screen-siren dresses. B.I.O.

✱ BY INVITATION ONLY: UPCOMING WEDDINGS

Anthony Miller, Kadriene Sylvain

Anthony, 24, is studying to be a physical therapist. Kadriene, 24, is a financial analyst. They live in Washington.

WEDDING: A semi-formal affair in Washington on March 11 for 120 family and friends. Anthony's stepfather will officiate.

HONEYMOON: A Caribbean cruise.

FIRST DATE: Dinner at Uno's on Valentine's Day 2002.

THEIR SONG: "Old Lovas" by Dwele.

"It is a complete depiction of who we are: fun, young-hearted and in love."

PET NAMES: "We come up with new names for each other every day."

HOW HE PROPOSED: During a quiet evening at home.

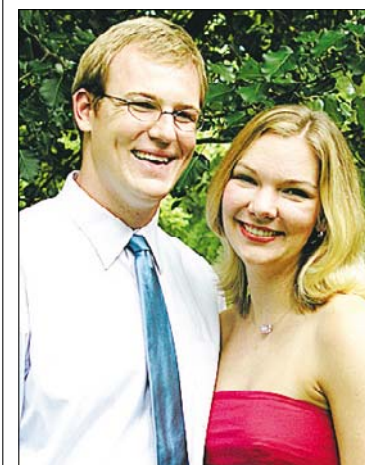

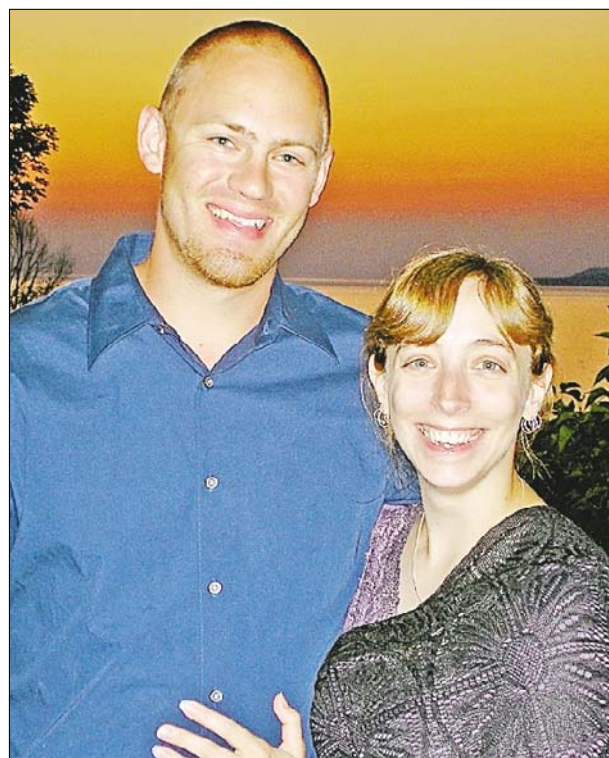

HOW SHE KNEW: "I was studying abroad in Ecuador," said Kadriene. "The highlights of my days were receiving e-mails. The one day he couldn't get to a computer was such agony!"

THE DRESS: A "chic little white number with a splash of funk."

MMM, CAKE: A heart-shaped banana and vanilla marble cake.

FAMILY TRADITIONS: The food will be both Jamaican and Southern, to represent the two families coming together.

“Our motto is, if you're not coming to have fun — stay home!”

Jay Owen, Whitney Setzer

Jay, 25, is a law student at George Washington University, where Whitney, 24, will graduate in May with a master's of public administration. They live in Arlington.

WEDDING: A Baptist ceremony on June 17, officiated by Whitney's father. The reception will be held at the Georgia Sports Hall of Fame — they'll need the space, since they're expecting 500 guests.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS: Jay thought Whitney was a "classic type-A overachiever." She found his shyness endearing.

FIRST DATE: Dinner at an Italian restaurant, on the way to which Jay got lost.

Board the Love Train

There's something GILLIAN HOLLAR likes about a pick-up man: Her first impression of JAMES PENN was "he has a big, beautiful black pick-up truck." They spent more time on the water than on wheels, as they were both rowing coaches for Robinson High School in Fairfax when they met. Their friendship grew, and a 2003 cross-country drive hauling a crew trailer to a regatta in Sacramento, Calif., led to romance.

Their wedding will incorporate all things transportation: Their wedding cake (white, with strawberries, raspberries and blackberries lining each tier) will be "towed" by a model pick-up truck that resembles the two the couple owns. And once the backyard ceremony is complete, James' dad will blow his homemade steam whistles and train horn to let the whole neighborhood know the pair has a one-way ticket to love.

James, 24, owns Mowing & Towing, a lawn maintenance company. Gillian, 27, is an assistant to a higher-education lobbyist for the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising. They live in Fairfax, where they will marry June 10.

Wayne Broadfield, Suzanne Struglinski

Wayne, 28, is an architect with MV+A Architects. Suzanne, 27, is the Washington correspondent for the Deseret Morning News (out of Salt Lake City). They live in Washington.

WEDDING: An afternoon ceremony on July 15 at a Unitarian church, followed by a reception for about 160 friends and family.

HOW THEY MET: At a surprise party for a mutual friend.

FIRST DATE: Coffee at the Capitol Hill Xando (now a Cusi).

HOW HE PROPOSED: Suzanne was covering the 2004 Democratic Convention when her hotel called to say she'd received flowers. When she opened the door, there was Wayne with a flower and a hand-painted jewelry box containing the ring.

WHEN HE KNEW: "The day I realized the only thing that made me happy was the next time I was going to see her," said Wayne.

THEIR SONG: "All I Want Is You" by U2. "We are both huge U2 fans and the lyrics are simple and pretty."

STUPIDEST FIGHT: "Something wedding-related ... we never bickered at all until we started planning the wedding."

MOST HATED CLOTHING ITEM: "All of his stuff that should mysteriously disappear, mysteriously, already has."

THE DRESS: A Mon Cheri dress Suzanne found in a heap on the floor at Filene's Basement.

MMM, CAKE: Four tiers of almond pound cake with raspberry filling.

“I thought Whitney was a classic Type A overachiever, and I was probably right.”

MOST HATED CLOTHING ITEM: Whitney would like see Jay's "growing collection of bow ties" disappear.

WHO WILL CRY FIRST: "Whitney is a crier, and Jay is not. You do the math."

THEIR SONG: The first dance will be to Marc Cohn's "True Companion."

LEAST WANTED SONG AT RECEPTION: The University of Georgia fight song (they're both Georgia Tech alumni).

WITH UNLIMITED FUNDS... "We would have had a band and more food. Having 500 people really limits things!"

Getting Married? If you'd like to see your wedding or commitment ceremony in B.I.O., send your favorite informal photo (wacky is fine, but please don't send a formal engagement shot), plus your names, contact info and the ceremony date to weddings@readexpress.com. We'll contact you with some questions as your big day approaches. Our space is limited, but we'll do our best to include as many as we can.
